Other server software may work, but these are not tested by the team and we may not be able to help with any issues that occur. EssentialsX currently supports Minecraft versions 1.8.8, 1.9.4, 1.10.2, 1.11.2, 1.12.2, 1.13.2, 1.14.4, 1.15.2, 1.16.5, 1.17.1, 1.18.2, and 1.19. EssentialsX currently requires Java 8 or higher. We recommend using the latest Java version supported by your server software. EssentialsX requires Vault to enable using chat prefix/suffixes and group support from supported permissions plugins. We recommend using LuckPerms for permissions and groups. If you have an unsupported permissions plugin but still want to use wildcards, enable use-bukkit-permissions in the configuration. Otherwise, the plugin will fall back to config-based permissions. Support Need help with using EssentialsX? Join the MOSS Discord community to ask for help and discuss EssentialsX. If you need to report a bug or want to suggest a new feature, you can open an issue on GitHub. Building To build EssentialsX, you need JDK 8 or higher installed on your system. Clone this repository, then run the following command: On Linux or macOS: ./gradlew build On Windows: gradlew build You can then find builds of EssentialsX modules in the jars/ directory. Running a test server You can also run a test server from your development environment using the following command: On Linux or macOS: ./gradlew build :runServer On Windows: gradlew build :runServer Note the : - without it, you will run several servers at once, which will likely crash Gradle. Using EssentialsX in your plugin Do you want to integrate with EssentialsX in your plugin? You can build your plugin against the EssentialsX API, available from the EssentialsX Maven repo.
